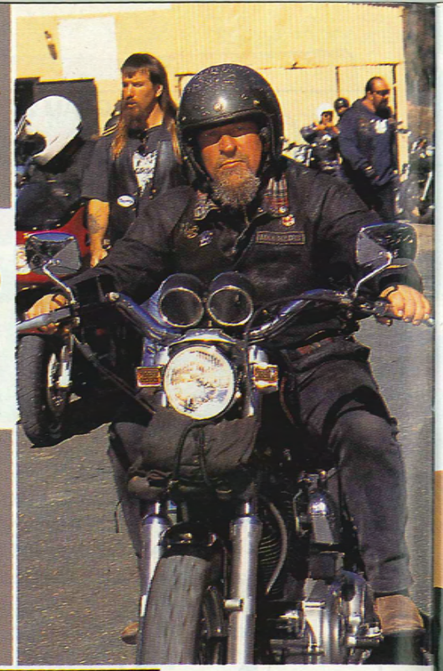
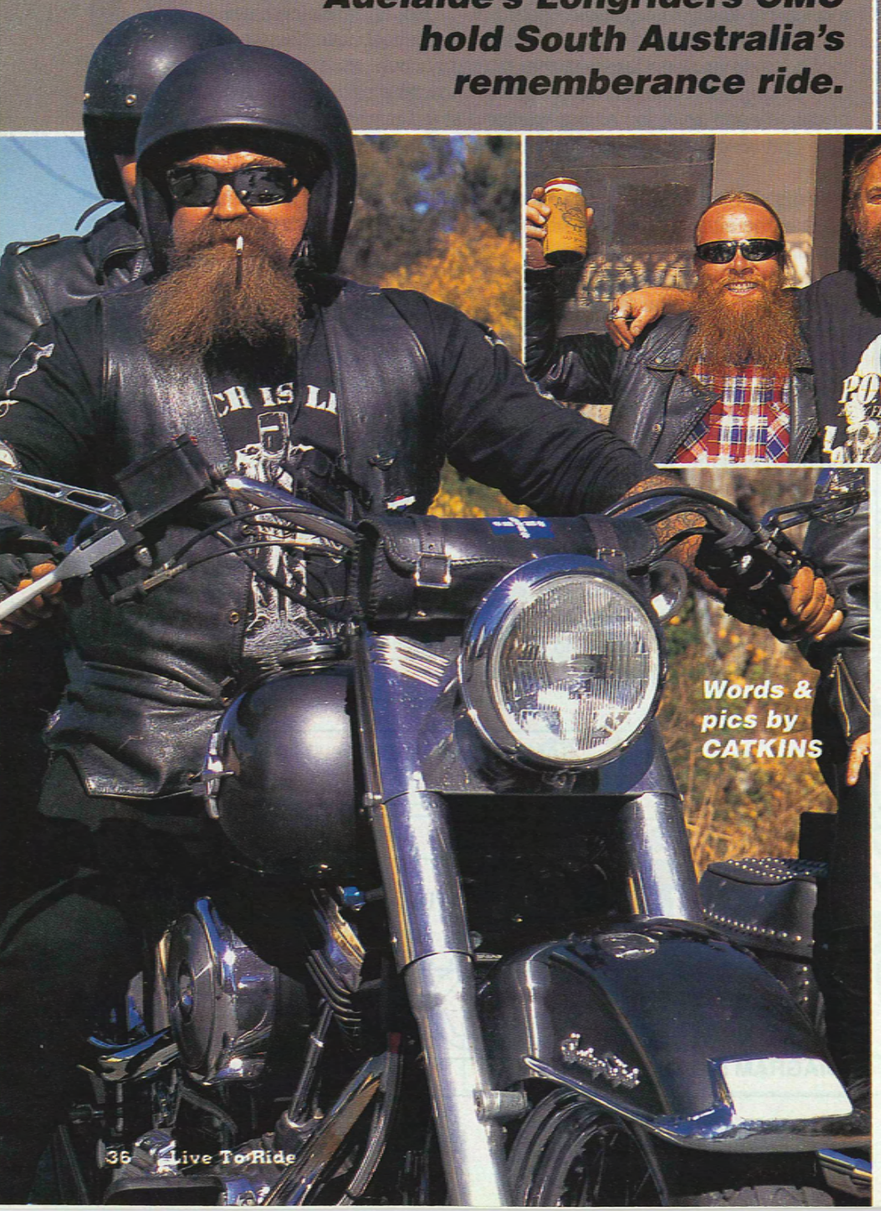
ANZAC DAY Aces

Adelaide's Longriders CMC hold South Australia's rememberance ride.





Words & pics by CATKINS

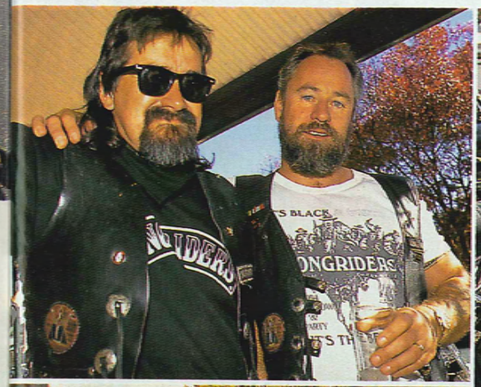
ANZAC DAY is a day to remember, a day to remember mates killed while fighting for their country. The Adelaide chapter of the Longriders CMC decided to remember these lost mates in style by holding an Anzac Day Service, followed by fun and games of the best kind a Poker Run to bring mates together and to share some laughs.

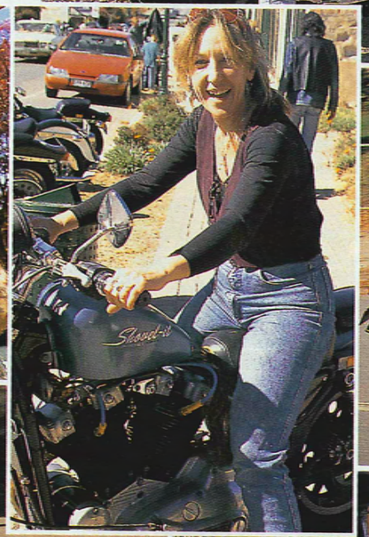
Heading out from the Mt Barker club house was a huge group of very, very happy people and it couldn't have had anything to do with a Friday off and a fantastic sunny day that was perfect Harley riding weather. Gee they were a happy lot!

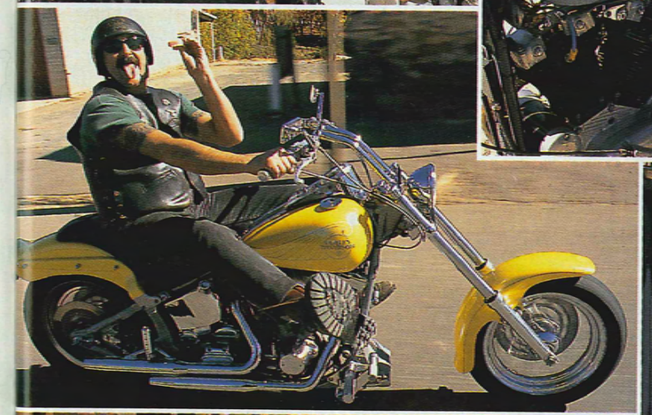
Sucking back the odd bug or two on the ride eventually brought everyone to the Birdwood Hotel where a guy named Agro went Troppo hanging his cute little ass out for all to see. It was all in good fun and folks wanted to know if Agro hired out his entertainment skills for future gigs.

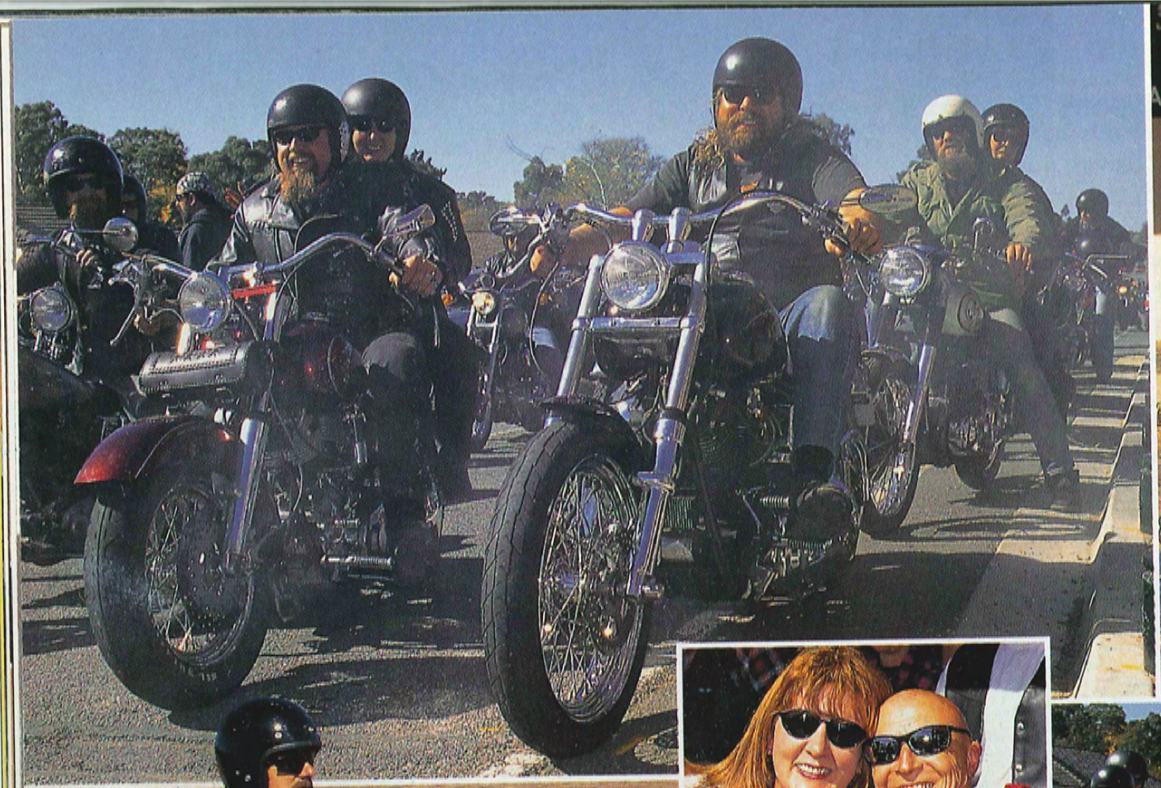
The occasional burnout by a few exhibitionists stirred up the crowd and made the day a memorable one. It was great to see people getting on, talking and mixing with one another. Maybe it has something to do with the casual nature of the Longriders, no heavy stuff, just good clean fun, people enjoy this and feel at ease and the grins just can't be wiped off.

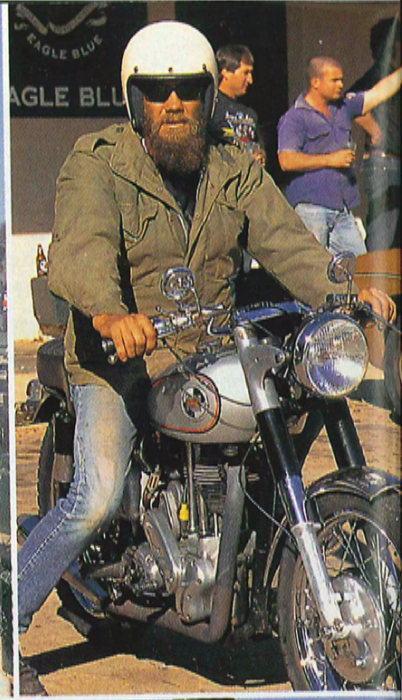
Ducati's and Triumphs, BSA's and Nortons, Harley's and more Harley's, what a line up and what a ride.

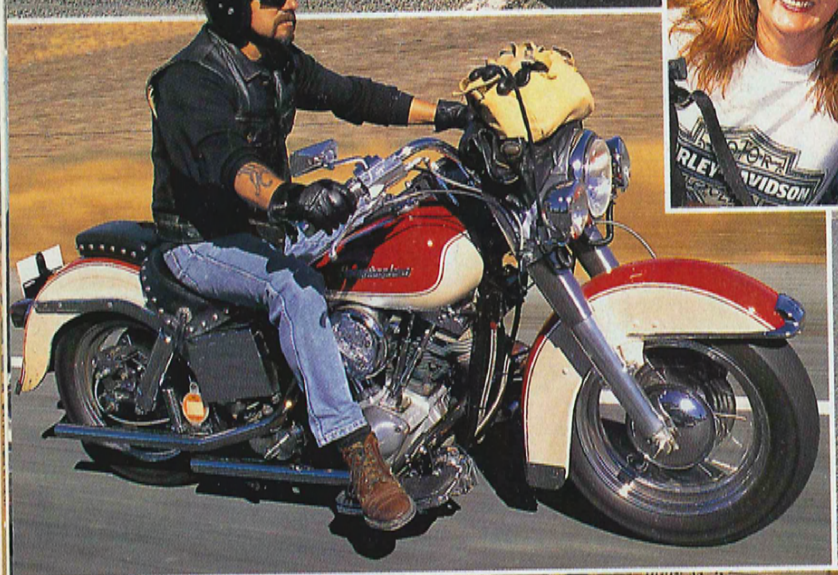


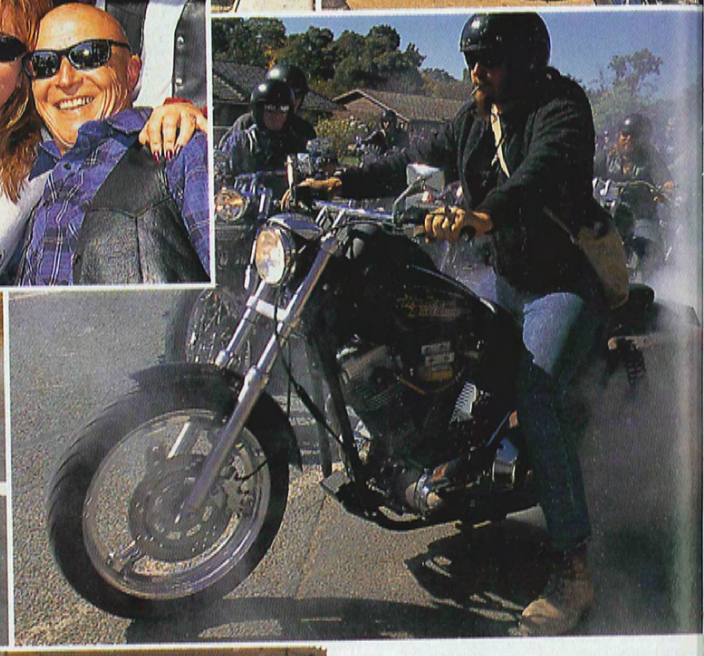












ANZAC DAY Aces

Williamstown pub was the next stop and with the cop shop right next door a couple of the boys got to mix with the party goers, hmm... and we pay 'em for this?

Then off through Mt Pleasant, another card and back to the clubhouse for trophies, food, drinks and Crazee's DJ. It's well worth it, so don't sit at home next year, get a life and check this one out cos it's well worth remembering. Believe me you won't forget it.